

Response to editor comments on paper "etrm: Energy Trading and Risk Management in R"

Anders D. Sleire

March 2022

We would like to thank the reviewers and the editor for helpful feedback, and the editor for the tentative acceptance of the paper. Editor comments are presented below, along with our response on each item.

Editor comments

> Figure and table captions should be expanded. The Author Guidelines > (<https://journal.r-project.org/share/proofreading-checklist.pdf>) says "cap> tions are appropriately constructed: should have three components: (1) what > is the plot/table about, (2) specific details of plot/table, like what type of > display and how variables are mapped, (3) the most important thing that the > reader should learn."

We agree with the comments, and we have improved the figure and table captions. They now offer more detailed descriptions in line with the requirements in the proof reading checklist.

> Figure 3 has a the base line colour of red/pink, and this makes it hard to > focus on the horizontal lines (which I think correspond to the contracts). It > would be better to use black as the base line colour.

We agree with the comments, and we have changed the base line colour in Figure 3 to black.